

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information processing apparatus capable of setting the start position of body pages to back side of cover or next sheet of cover. When the body pages
5 are set to start from the back side of the cover, the cover is printed on the first side of the first sheet, the first page of the body is printed on the second side of the first sheet, and the second and subsequent pages of the body are printed on both sides of the 10 second and subsequent sheets. When the body pages are set to start from a sheet different from the cover, the cover is printed on the first side of the first sheet, only a background image of the cover is printed on the second side of the first sheet, which is the back side 15 of the cover, and the body pages are printed on both sides of the second and subsequent sheets.